1. Situation

   a. General. In FY11, there were 333 reports of sexual assault in the Marine Corps. Under the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), sexual assault is a criminal act that includes intentional sexual contact characterized by the use of force, threats, intimidation, or abuse of authority, or when a victim does not or cannot consent. Current research indicates that sexual assault is significantly underreported. Reports of sexual assault are often immediately dismissed as false and focus on the victim’s behavior or reputation rather than the conduct of the offender. An allegation of sexual assault can only be determined to be false when the evidence establishes no crime was committed. Current research indicates that the percentage of false allegations generally range from 2 to 8 percent. Research consistently indicates that victims usually know their offenders, and that the use of alcohol, by both offender and victim, often plays a significant role in creating circumstances under which sexual assault is more likely to occur. Alcohol is often the “weapon of choice” of most offenders. Many offenders act deliberately; seeking out both a vulnerable target and an opportunity. In those cases, alcohol is often used to make a victim more vulnerable to assault.
Subj: SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE CAMPAIGN PLAN 2012

b. The Problem. Despite our efforts, we have been ineffective at addressing and eliminating sexual assault within our ranks. In far too many cases across the Marine Corps, poor command climates due to unengaged leadership are eroding the trust necessary for victims to safely report these crimes. Sexual assault is not an inevitable byproduct of a mixed gender force; it is a crime. It is completely incompatible with our core values and directly undermines readiness, unit cohesion, and morale. Surveys consistently show the rationale for not reporting includes: shame, embarrassment, fear of disbelief or inaction, fear of retaliation, and perceived impact to career progression. A command climate in which inappropriate behavior (sexual harassment, sexual jokes, innuendos, etc.) is tolerated raises the risk of sexual assault and decreases the likelihood that victims will report.

c. Implications. Failing to significantly decrease sexual assault in our ranks:

(1) Represents a failure of leadership’s ability to protect our most prized resources, the sons and daughters of the American people.

(2) Impacts unit readiness.

(3) Undermines trust and confidence in the chain of command.

(4) Detracts from good order, discipline, and unit cohesion.

(5) Results in a loss of faith in the unit and the institution.

2. Mission. Upon receipt of this Campaign Plan, the Marine Corps affirms everyone’s responsibility to: prevent sexual assault; identify mandatory actions to eliminate behavior in the Marine Corps that encourages, validates, or enables sexual assault; enact measures to ensure accountability of offenders; and reinforce victim care, confidentiality and protection from initial reporting through final adjudication in order to preserve our core values and to protect our Marines and the institution they represent.

3. Execution

a. Commander's Intent. "Marines...we have a significant issue with Sexual Assault inside our Corps - let me be clear on how I view this and where I stand. Sexual assault is an ugly mark on our proud reputation; it goes against everything we claim to be as United States Marines...it is a crime. This crime is not only completely incompatible with our core values of honor, courage and commitment, it is an affront to the basic American principles we so bravely defend. It undermines readiness, unit cohesion, and morale. ... I want Marines of all ranks thinking and talking about this issue. We must reinforce the message that it's every Marine's inherent duty to step up and step in to prevent sexual assault. ... Our greatest weapon in the battle against sexual assault has been and will continue to be decisive and engaged leadership. ... I expect Commanding Officers, Officers-in-Charge, and senior enlisted to spare no effort in changing the prevailing conditions and attitudes that are allowing this crime to happen among our ranks. Leaders at every level are responsible to create an environment and command climate in which every Marine is treated with dignity and respect; .... The Marine Corps has not spent the last ten years defending our nation's high principles abroad, only to permit this type of behavior within our own ranks." [Excerpts from CMC White Letter 2-12.]

(1) Purpose. To reduce, with a goal to eliminate, incidents of sexual assault through prevention and engaged leadership. When a sexual assault does occur, to provide appropriate and timely victim care, investigations, and accountability that reflect our core values and promote good order and discipline. The following Lines of Operations, with a distinct emphasis on Prevention, are intended to conceptualize our "way ahead."

(a) Prevention. Prevention is the most critical aspect of our efforts to eliminate sexual assault and represents the foundation for the successful conduct of this Campaign. Prevention speaks to the overarching desire to "get to the left" of the incident via deterrence through appropriate action, more effective screening of individuals wanting to join our ranks, and properly identifying and mitigating high risk situations, individuals, and geographic locations. All the tenets of Guardian Angel apply; Marines must become active and engaged protectors, and "take care of our own" when the situation warrants, not only after an incident occurs.

(b) Reporting. Reporting begins with the victim’s decision to submit a restricted or unrestricted report and includes notification of the chain of command that an assault has occurred, the subsequent release of Serious Incident Reports (SIR), and entry of cases in the Sexual Assault Incident Reporting Database. To provide the data required to identify trends and training requirements, enhanced reporting initiatives including continued SIR reporting and the new Defense Sexual Assault Incident Database (DSAID) and 8-day briefs will be used.

(c) Victim Care. Victim care encompasses those actions involving response, protection and care for Marines from initiation of a report through offense disposition and/or the victim no longer requires services. Successful victim care is achieved through the coordinated efforts of commanders, victim advocates, chaplains, law enforcement, legal personnel and medical officials.

(d) Investigations. Investigations play a pivotal role throughout the entire process and are the foundation of a fair and just legal system. Investigations must be conducted in a manner that respects the dignity of the victim while protecting the due process rights of the alleged offender. Investigations must be conducted independent of the chain of command in order to preserve the integrity of the process.

(e) Adjudication. Accountability is an enduring aspect of command, and it is the commander’s responsibility to ensure those who fail to maintain the high standards of conduct expected of every Marine are held accountable. When sufficient evidence of a sexual assault exists, commanders must review the full range of administrative and disciplinary options afforded by the UCMJ and take action, within the limits of their authority, they deem appropriate. Continuous interaction with the Staff Judge Advocate is of particular importance. The fair and impartial administration of justice and the preservation of good order and discipline are paramount.

(f) Engaged Leadership. The most important aspect of combating and eradicating sexual assault is the creation of a positive command climate that promotes discipline, respect, and accountability. Leaders at every level must remain vigilant to identify environmental risks, high risk behaviors and personal vulnerabilities that contribute to sexual assaults. A command climate in which inappropriate behavior (sexual jokes, innuendos, etc.) is tolerated raises the risk of sexual assault and decreases the likelihood that victims will report.

(2) Method. Reinvigorate our existing Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) program, significantly reduce sexual assaults, improve reporting and implement the new initiatives outlined in paragraph 3b to:

(a) Hold commanders and subordinate unit leaders accountable for establishing a positive command climate. Train commanders and subordinate leaders to identify and stop any behavior that diminishes a Marine’s dignity or value to the unit. Remind Marines of the need to look out for each other, not just on the battlefield but in situations that could lead to sexual assault. Particular command attention is required in those situations where alcohol is present. Leaders must also establish a climate that places serious consequences on the misuse and abuse of alcohol. This includes holding those accountable who fail to take action to protect fellow Marines.

(b) Continue to eliminate gender biases and prejudices among members of the Corps while maintaining a true warrior ethos.

(c) Although the nature of many sexual assaults make them unpredictable, we must train our Marines to identify and avoid dangerous situations, both in garrison and in combat. Just as in combat, Marines are also expected to communicate the dangers they have identified to others, and help them avoid or eliminate them as well.

(3) End state. A Marine Corps that reinforces our core values of honor, courage, and commitment and does not tolerate sexual assault.

b. Concept of Operations

(1) Overview. This campaign will be executed in three Phases: Phase I-Strike; Phase II-Implement; and Phase III-Sustain. Phases I & II are time-based, Phase III is conditions-

(c) Using the upcoming Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC) Fiscal Year 2012 Gender Relations Survey, contract an independent agency to provide data assembly, management and exploitation in order to establish a sexual assault statistical base line for the Marine Corps.

(d) OREP-3/SIR reports, required in the event of an incident of actual, suspected or alleged sexual assault, remain the vehicle to conduct initial reporting. "8-day briefs" of sexual assault are now submitted to the first general officer in the chain of command, with information copies submitted to the Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps (ACMC) and the Deputy Commandant for Manpower and Reserve Affairs (DC M&RA) (MF) within 8 days of an incident.

(3) Phase II Overview. Phase II, the "Implementation" phase, begins 10 November 2012 and is estimated to conclude within 12 months of publication of this Campaign Plan. The following key outcomes are expected:

(a) Establish a Plan of Action and Milestones (POA&M) for implementation of regional Sexual Assault Response Teams (SARTs).

(b) Develop a "plain language" pre-enlistment waiver history accessible by command leadership.

(c) Coordinate with the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery (BUMED) to determine appropriate staffing/assignment of Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) Examiners to bases/stations and to ensure appropriate access to SAFE Examiners for forward deployed units.

(d) Sexual assault data from DMDC survey captured and systematic analysis of same informing Campaign Plan execution.

(e) Fiscal Year 2013 SAPR training infused with lessons learned from Phase I execution and prepared for execution. This includes a continual "evolution" of video based SAPR Ethical Decision Games (EDG).

(f) With the intent of introducing male recruits/students early in their careers to "role model" female Marine leaders, gender-integrated drill instructor (in supporting billets) and school house instructor teams are assigned in a reasonable fashion. Particular attention is required to ensure the appropriate level and role of these assignments.

(g) The singular focus during Phase I & II on SAPR was purposeful. This in no way diminishes the importance of mitigating the risks associated with other high risk behaviors, especially substance abuse and suicide. Properly sustaining any/all success of this campaign is inextricably tied to fully nesting SAPR efforts with the ongoing efforts of DC M&RA (MF). Accordingly, a follow-on holistic planning effort to achieve synergy amongst these efforts is anticipated in the November-December 2012 timeframe.
(4) Phase III Overview. Phase III, the "Sustainment Phase," begins on order, and when DC M&RA (MF) determines the objectives of Phase II have been met. It is anticipated that Phase II's November-December planning effort will conduct a detailed assessment of the ongoing Campaign, and serve as the principal advisor to DC M&RA with regard to Phase transition. The following key outcomes are expected during Phase III:

(a) DC M&RA In-Progress Review/assessment complete and informing conduct of both the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Implementation Team (SAPR-IT) Branch and SAPR Campaign.

(b) Commanders at all levels receiving requisite support to effectively sustain SAPR.

(5) Tasks

(a) Phase I (3 May 2012 - 9 November 2012). All materials required to conduct "Take A Stand" are currently available via unit Uniformed Victim Advocates. The GO SAPR and SgtsMaj Symposia will serve as the vehicle to disseminate the training materials required for successful conduct of the Command Team and All Hands Training. For the purposes of this Campaign, Command Teams are, at a minimum, the Commanding Officer/Sergeant Major. Commanders may add select members of their staffs (e.g., Executive Officer, Chaplain, etc.) as desired.

1. All COMMARFORS, CG MARSOC, CG LOGCOM,

a. Per the references, execute all applicable tasks, with a specific emphasis on those tasks associated with the five major activities contained in Phase IA through Phase IC. Commanders and their sergeants major are to be the primary trainers for this instruction.

b. Examine and refocus efforts on current "Take a Stand" training. Conduct Phase I, Stage A, "Take a Stand" Training with a new suspense date of not later than (NLT) 31 August 2012.

c. Conduct Phase I, Stage B, Command Team Training NLT 31 August 2012.
d. Conduct Phase I, Stage C, All Hands Training NLT 9 November 2012.

e. Report status of training as directed in paragraph 5 below.

2. Commanding General, Marine Corps Combat Development Command (CG MCCDC)

a. Assist the SAPR-IT in development and collation of the Commander’s SAPR Toolkit for posting on the M&RA webpage NLT 6 July 2012.

b. Develop SAPR-EDG videos, using the vignettes provided by SAPR-IT, to support Phase I Stage C, All Hands Training. Provide initial SAPR-EDGs to support GO SAPR Symposium NLT 6 July 2012. Provide final SAPR-EDGs to support Phase I Stage C, All Hands Training NLT 17 August 2012.

c. Develop Distance Learning/MarineNet SAPR products that support Phase I Stage C, All Hands Training NLT 17 August 2012. Intent of this product is to serve as an information resource, not as a replacement, for those Marines unable to receive commander-led Phase I training during the established timelines. My intent is clear; all Marines are to receive this training from their commanders. Marines unavailable during All Hands Training, who use the MarineNet resource, will be considered partially trained.

d. Assist SAPR-IT in conducting GO/SgtsMaj SAPR Symposia.

e. Develop POA&M to implement Phase I Stage C, All Hands Training, for all going through Entry-Level Training (ELT) and attending resident courses (greater than 30 days in duration) during the period 17 September - 9 November 2012. The only exemptions to the 9 November deadline for student training are recruits at the Marine Corps Recruit Depots (MCRDs) and candidates at Officers Candidate School (OCS) who are scheduled to graduate after 9 November; they will receive training prior to reporting to their first duty station.
Subj: SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE CAMPAIGN PLAN 2012

3. Deputy Commandant for Plans, Policies and Operations (DC PP&O)

a. ICW CG MCNCR, coordinate with DC M&RA (MF Div, SAPR-IT) NLT 1 August 2012 to assess ability of Marine Corps Embassy Security Group (MCESG) to meet timelines below. Task MCESG to take “ALL COMMARFOR” tasks assigned above for action with the following modifications: “Take a Stand”, Command Team and All Hands Training complete NLT 30 September 2013. These initial timelines recognize the unique laydown of MCESG when considering the requirement to have the CO and SgtMaj lead Phase I SAPR training. If these timelines are deemed not feasible, contact DC M&RA (MF Div, SAPR-IT) to coordinate a reasonable reset.

b. NLT 1 November 2012, coordinate with the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) for additional training of Provost Marshal’s Offices and Marine Corps Police Departments to enhance capabilities and reinforce first responder responsibilities for cases involving sexual assault.

4. Commander, Marine Forces Reserve (COMMARFORRES). Take “ALL COMMARFOR” tasks assigned above for action with the following modifications: “Take a Stand” and Command Team Training complete NLT 31 December 2012, and All Hands Training complete NLT 30 September 2013. These timelines recognize Marine Forces Reserve’s unique lay-down when considering the requirement to have the commanders and sergeants major lead Phase I SAPR training.

   f. Serve as the approval authority for all waiver requests concerning the timelines directed in this Campaign Plan.

7. Commanding General, Marine Corps Recruiting Command (CG MCRC). Intent of tasks below is to establish screening protocols and training for all recruiters in order to better identify and exclude applicants who may not respect appropriate boundaries of behavior. This includes alcohol abuse and patterns of alcohol related misconduct.

   a. Coordinate with NCIS and other external law enforcement agencies to develop enhanced screening protocols for applicants NLT 1 November 2012.
Subj: SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION AND RESPONSE CAMPAIGN PLAN 2012

Sexual Assault Executive Summary

The Problem
- Despite our efforts, we have been ineffective at addressing and eliminating sexual assault within our ranks. Poor command climate, often the result of unengaged leadership, raises the risk of sexual assault and erodes the trust necessary for victims to safely report these crimes.
- In FY11, the Marine Corps received 333 reports of sexual assault.
- A 2010 DoD survey found that approximately 80% of sexual assaults go unreported (71% of female and 85% of male victims never report). ¹

Discussion
- There can be no ambiguity in the mind of any Marine. Sexual assault is not an inevitable byproduct of a mixed gender force; it is a crime. It is completely incompatible with our core values and directly undermines readiness, unit cohesion, and morale. We must reduce sexual assaults and significantly improve reporting.
- Surveys consistently show the rationale for not reporting includes: shame, embarrassment, fear of disbelief or inaction, fear of retaliation, and perceived impact to career progression.
- A command climate in which inappropriate behavior (sexual jokes, innuendos, etc.) is tolerated raises the risk of sexual assault and decreases the likelihood that victims will report.
- Reports of sexual assault are often immediately dismissed as false. Research has consistently found that only 2 to 8 percent of allegations are false. ²
- Offenders act deliberately; seeking out both a vulnerable target and an opportunity. Alcohol is often an offenders “weapon of choice,” because it makes victims more vulnerable to sexual assault.

Way Ahead
- Hold commanders and subordinate unit leaders accountable for establishing a positive command climate.
- Train commanders and subordinate leaders to identify and stop any behavior that diminishes a Marine’s dignity or value to the unit.
- Remind Marines of their duty to protect and defend each other in accordance with our core values of honor, courage, and commitment.
- Continue to evolve our culture, while maintaining a true warrior ethos, to eliminate gender bias and promote acceptance of women as equal Marines.
- Train our Marines to identify and avoid dangerous situations, both in garrison and in combat.

SART ANNEX

The Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) is a first response team that provides a collaborative approach towards efficient investigating practices, forensic evidence collection and victim advocacy/care by nesting the various existing functions into a focused team designed to effectively respond to an incident of sexual assault. Its overarching goal is to increase victim endurance to see the legal process through completion while reducing "re-victimization. By its nature, SART's efficiency is gained by partnering first responders with investigators and prosecutors, ensuring a focused and timely investigation and seamless transition to judicial and/or administrative action. Most importantly, mental health resources and legal assistance are introduced early in victim care as resources are brought directly to the victim.

Concept of employment

SART is a tool designed to provide incident response and integrated case management. It consists of the Naval Criminal Investigation Service (NCIS) Agent, Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) Examiner, the Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC)/Uniform Victim Advocate (UVA) and the Provost Marshal Office. SART supports case management by participating in the monthly Case Management Group responsible for coordinating actions leading to resolution. Figure 1 depicts the members/agencies and their relationship as they provide first response and continued case management for each case.

Execution. SARTs will be located at major installations both in the United States and in Japan. SARTs are installation assets that support commanders by coordinating response efforts and victim advocacy in all cases of sexual assault. SARTs capitalize on existing capabilities across installations. A proposed realignment of NCIS agents and first line supervisors with specific expertise on adult sexual assaults is being requested to provide additional resources at each major installation. In addition, increasing the number of SAFE Examiners assigned to each Naval Medical Treatment Facility is being considered by BUMED to provide an enhanced Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) capability. In cases of sexual assault occurring not on a Marine Corps Installation or where victims receive patient care from a local provider, the SART may not be directly involved with initial response, but still maintains responsibility for the Case Management Group and potential follow-on patient care.

Installations that operate medical clinics vice 24/7 medical care facilities such as MCRD San Diego or MCB Quantico, will form SARTs in coordination with the nearest Naval Medical facility or at their installations capable of interacting with local providers.
Installations with 24/7 medical care facilities will provide SART support to non-tenants e.g., MCB Camp Lejeune to MCAS New River.
